

IN THE
Supreme Court of the United States

OCTOBER TERM, 1967

No. 478

AMALGAMATED FOOD EMPLOYEES UNION LOCAL 590,
ET AL., Petitioners,

v.

LOGAN VALLEY PLAZA, INC.
AND WEIS MARKETS, INC.

ON A WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE SUPREME COURT OF PENNSYLVANIA

MOTION OF RETAIL CLERKS INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION, AFL-CIO, FOR LEAVE TO FILE A BRIEF AMICUS CURIAE

Retail Clerks International Association (RCIA), an international, parent labor union which has in excess of one-half million members, respectfully asks leave to file a brief as amicus curiae in this case for the following reasons:

1. The RCIA is the largest labor union in the world whose members are employed exclusively in the retail industry. Tens of thousands of its members are presently employed in retail establishments which are situated in shopping centers of the very kind involved in this case.
2. The RCIA engages in extensive efforts to organize and to bring the benefits of collective bargaining to unorganized retail industry employees. A substantial number of these organizing campaigns each year involve employees who work in stores located in privately owned shopping centers of the very kind involved here. Because the RCIA organizes and represents employees in every sector of the retail industry, the impact of the Court's decision in the case at bar will be greater for the RCIA than for any other labor organization in the United States by far. Moreover, the significance of the issues in the instant case to the RCIA is increasing with each passing day, for the indisputable trend in American retailing, both in the cities and in the suburbs, is towards shopping centers and complexes housing a number of retail establishments under a single roof on privately owned land.

3. The RCIA has been a party to a majority of the cases involving the issue of whether labor organizations have a constitutional as well as a federally guaranteed statutory right to communicate with employees on privately owned shopping center property. See e.g., Arlan's Dept. Store of Charleston (Retail Clerks), Case No. 9-CA-3308 (1965); Freeman v. Retail Clerks, 363 P.2d 803 (Wash. 1961); Green v. Retail Store Employees, 49 LRRM 3059 (Pa.Ct. Cm.Pl. 1961); Illinois v. Goduto, 211 Ill.2d 605, 174 N.E.2d 385 (1961), cert. denied 368 U.S. 927 (1961); Illinois v. Mazo, 44 LRRM 2881 (Ill. Cir. Ct. 1959); Maryland v. Williams, 44 LRRM 2357 (Baltimore City Crim. Ct., Md. 1959); Moreland Corp. v. Retail Store Employees, 144 N.W.2d 876 (Wis. 1962); Nahas v. Retail Clerks, 301 P.2d 932, 302 P.2d 829 (Calif. Dist. Ct. App. 1956); and Retail Fruit & Vegetable Clerks (Crystal Palace Market), 116 NLRB 856 (1956), enforced 249 F.2d 591 (C.A. 9 1957).

4. The experience of the RCIA in facing the problems of communicating with employees on privately owned shopping center property covers a period of several decades. This experience has involved not only civil injunction proceedings of the type involved here, but also a number of criminal trespass cases and cases before the National Labor Relations Board. Moreover, the RCIA's experience with this problem is reflected in unreported decisions which are not generally available.

5. While the RCIA has great confidence in the ability of counsel for petitioners to argue fully and fairly the implications of the issues involved in the instant proceeding, the RCIA believes that its unique experience may be useful to the Court in exploring the dimensions of the issues raised by this case. In its amicus brief, if permission to file such a brief is granted, the RCIA will delineate specific ways in which the application of state trespass-after-warning statutes have been used to prevent communication with employees in shopping centers and thereby to frustrate substantial federal rights and interests.

6. Counsel for petitioners have consented to the RCIA's filing a brief as amicus curiae. Counsel for the respondents have refused permission to the RCIA to file such a brief for the sole reason that "the case before the Court will factually involve a simple trespass only in one shopping center and one store."¹ We believe that the Court's granting certiorari to this proceeding suggests that the Court may regard the case as one which involves the rights of all workers in shopping centers throughout the land.

7. Because of the RCIA's great interest in the outcome of this proceeding as well as because of its unprecedented experience in litigation involving the precise issues involved here, the RCIA's experience and views may be of some aid to the Court. If permission is granted to file a brief as amicus curiae, it will be short and relevant, so that the Court's time will not be misspent.

Respectfully submitted,
